

Hydrology GCSE in Edale

COVID 19 additional notes

Things to see and read before your visit

- Pre visit guidance
- The existing teacher's notes
- The site information sheet
- The general risk assessment including COVID 19 risk assessment
- Familiarise yourselves with the method before you arrive by watching the introductory film on the website
- This PowerPoint introduction
- The accompanying method sheets and maps

How to behave during your visit

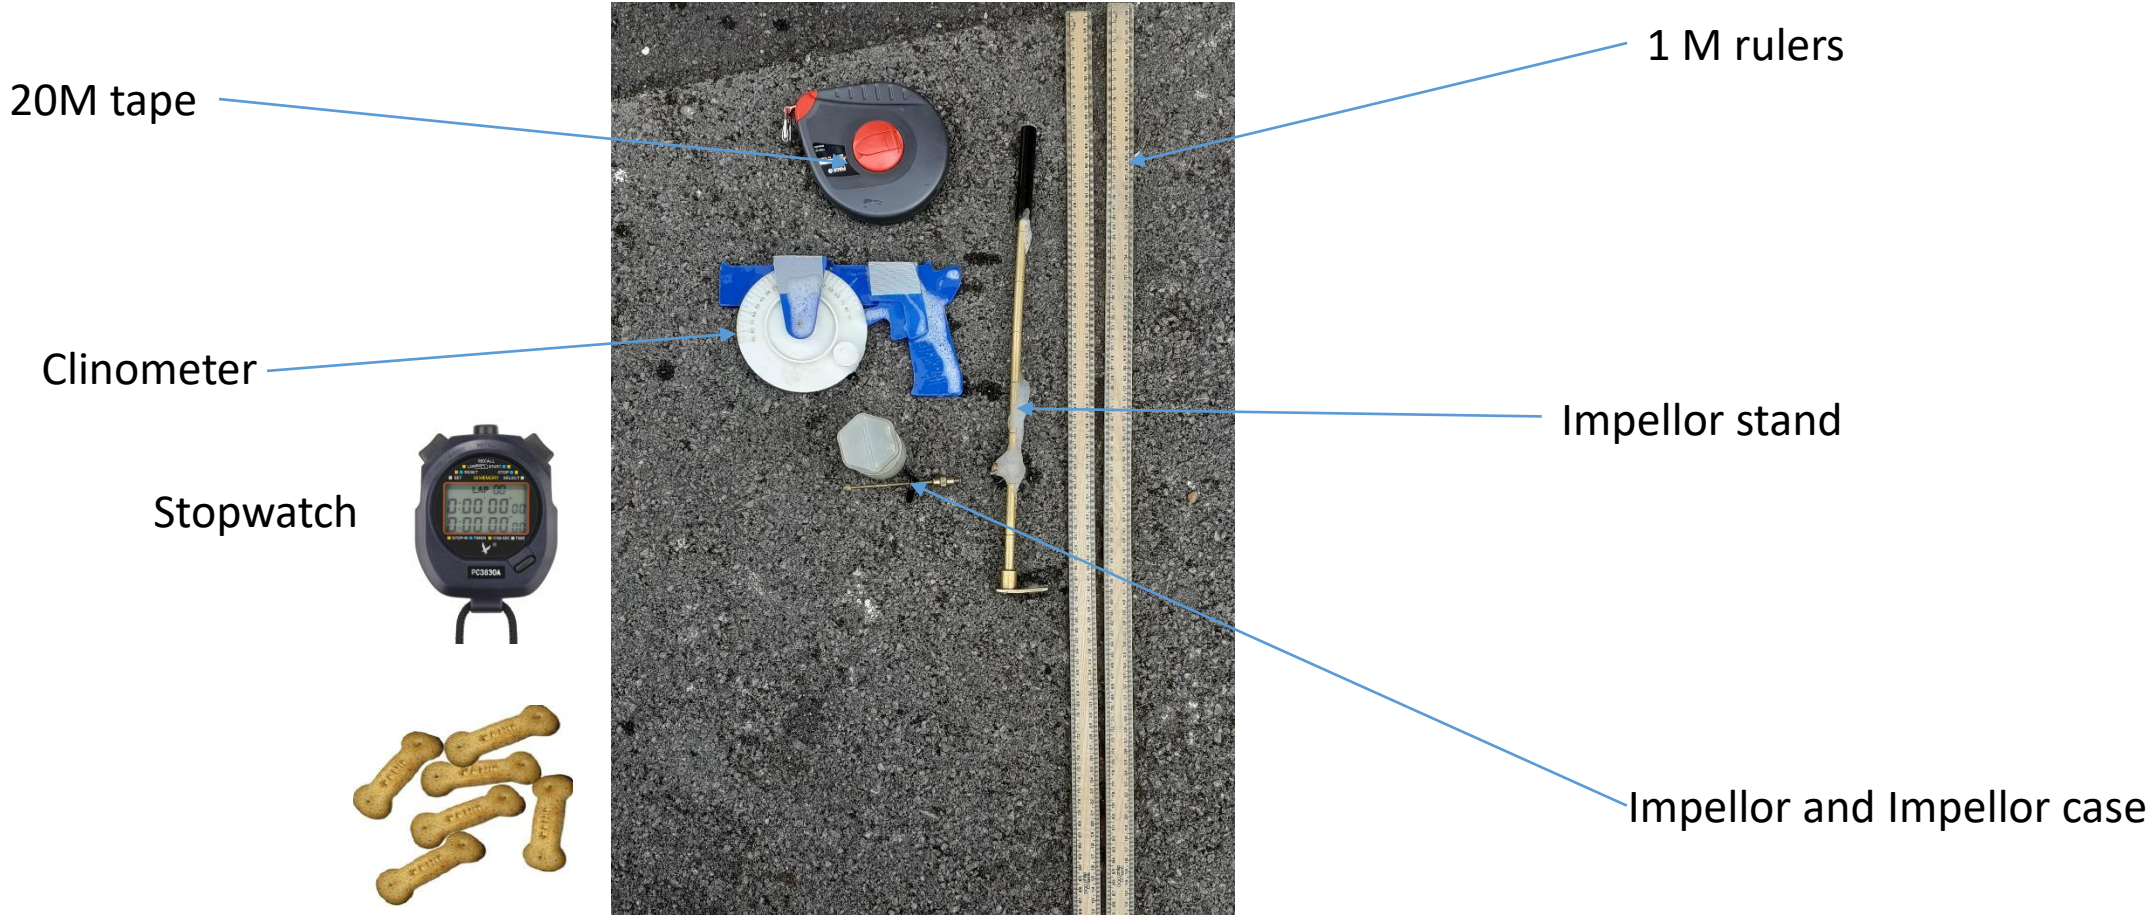

- Socially distance yourselves from the Public as they will not be in your bubble. (That means at least 2 metres).
- Listen carefully to all instructions.
- Ask questions if you don't understand anything.

Arrival in Edale Car Park

- There are public toilets here and they will be the only ones you can use all day.

Typical Hydrology Equipment

20M tape

Clinometer

Stopwatch

1 M rulers

Impellor stand

Impellor and Impellor case

Dog biscuits or other floating object which will biodegrade

Things for each student to bring

- Suitable clothing including a waterproof coat to match the weather forecast, including hat and gloves if it is going to be cold and sunblock if it's hot.
- Wellies, or old trainers to get wet.
- Hand sanitizer, to use especially before you eat or drink.
- Clipboard, method sheets and a polythene bag to cover them in case of rain.
- A pen and pencil.
- A mask to wear in public toilets or to your preference anytime.

Social Distancing still 2 metres where possible

- There are some places on your route where social distancing may need some thought.
- The first sites are around 40 minutes walk away and you will cross narrow bridges with hand rails.
- Care must be taken when meeting members of the public and you will need to try and manage social distancing and stay 2 metres apart. Keeping your distance from other members of the public.

Watch the video summary of what to do.

Hydrology and Fluvial Geomorphology: Peak District National Park

- Notice how each of the pieces of equipment that you have are being used. It will save you time when you arrive on your visit.
