General Description of site (including photographs)

The Longshaw Estate is an upland area of rough grassland, moorland and woodland with streams/river the Padley Gorge area of the estate. The area is high and exposed so can be more prone to the weather sun/wind/rain. Bring sun cream, hats and drinking water in summer (please note we have a supply of plastic cups and jugs so drinking water can be provided at lunch time). The photos below give a general view of the terrain, the route taken by most groups and some specific risks.

The Moorland Discovery Centre and grounds

Our paths are generally solid but uneven with protruding stones and tree roots. There can be puddles and muddy patches in places.

Some paths are accessed by narrow gates

These are the two stream sites used during the river study day. Access into the water depends on the weather and rain fall levels.
